The Raytheon Technologies culture has enormous respect for military service. Our customers are the service members defending our nation. We are especially proud of our Operation Phoenix Program, which provides opportunities for transitioning military personnel, including those who were severely wounded, injured and/or ill during combat operations in the global war on terror (on or after Sept. 11, 2001). Raytheon Technologies also gives consideration to spouses and caregivers who have needed to take on the role of primary wage-earner for the immediate family.

The Raytheon Technologies group of Veteran Employee Resource Groups supports veterans who work for the company as well as veterans' organizations in local communities.
